

Everything for the Collector

Collecting coins, medals, and banknotes is a fascinating hobby.

Even archeologists use coins for research. The information they gain from studying ancient coins helps them to better understand different time periods. It is very important to maintain and preserve these cultural, valuable collectibles. Of course, LINDNER offers the best accommodations for your coins, medals, and banknotes. Maintaining the condition of valuable pieces can increase the value for years to come. Most collectors turn coin collecting into a life long passion. LINDNER shares this passion and our high quality coin products will give you years of pleasure and enjoyment.

August Lindner started to develop products for collectors in 1947. He developed the first coin album in Germany which today is still a popular product.

Almost 60 years later, the fourth generation of the LINDNER family has taken the obligation to offer exceptional numismatic supplies for years to come. LINDNER knows the demands and concerns of the collector. We have always developed new innovative concepts which were designed with the needs of the collectors in mind, and we will continue to do so in the future. On principle, collectors can be sure: our product specialists and professionals test every product for functionality and suitability. Therefore, you can trust our decades long know-how.

The advantages of the products and the strength of a well established company are convincing to collectors worldwide. Our performance is easily recognized - collectors can expect only "Original Quality" on products with the name LINDNER.

All core line products are "Made in Germany" and undergo strict quality control in our facility in Schoenberg, Germany.

We are here for you!

Our trained and knowledgeable customer service representatives in our office can help you with almost every question. And if something requires more research, our headquarters in Germany is quick to help with their knowledge and expertise. In addition, LINDNER products are available through a network of many well known coin dealers, stamp stores and mail order businesses.

Having fun collecting is always our main focus. That's why we offer a variety of proven products and collecting systems that pleases every collector. Usually, the collector can select between different products and systems depending on preference and taste. Your treasures will always be protected in our products. Representation and safety is a priority to maintain the value and beauty of your collection. Trust our decade long experience.
